If your little one is squirmly, wait until she's calmer or distract her with a toy. For babies older than six months, sunscreen should be used as the last line of defence after avoiding direct sunlight, putting on covering clothing, a hat and shade. Extra protection is also a must near the equator, where the sun is strongest, and at high altitudes, where the air and The Sun's Babies cover are thinner. Email us at tipsthe-sun. If your baby must be in the sun, dress him or her in clothing that covers the body, including hats with wide brims to shadow the face.
